The Associated Press to Turn Into a Stock Company.

The Associated Press of New York, says the New York Recorder, is to turn itself into a stock company, with a capital of $3,000,000. It is now a co-partnership concern with the following members: Herald, Sun, Times, World, Tribune, Journal of Commerce, and Mail and Express. In addition it supplies news under contract to the Staats Zeitung, Post, and Commercial-Advertiser.

The proposition to make the change to a stock company was made at a meeting last November by Colonel Eliot F. Shepard, of the Mail and Express. It was referred to a committee to carry out the details, included in which was the securing of the assent of James Gordon Bennett, of the Herald, Whitelaw Reid, of the Tribune, and Joseph Pulitzer, of the World, all of whom are in Europe.

CATERPILLAR ARMY.

TRAINS ON THE CAROLINA CENTRAL

BLOCKED BY THE INSECTS. History - Ralls and Ties Covered-Inches Deep and Hidden from View.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.] CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 2.—The Carolina Central trainmen have been having a peculiar experience with caterpillars for four or five days past, and it is something unheard of in the railroad history of this State. Just east of Lumberton is what is known as the big swamp, and the railroad gets through it on trestle-work broken here and there in the more solid places in the swamp by solid embankments of earth. Last Tuesday an army of caterpillars began moving out of the swamp, and when they reached the streams over which the treatles carry the rails they massed on the railroad and proceeded to cross on the treatles.

A DEAD STANDSTILL. The rails and ties were covered inches deep with the moving mass, and the first train that encountered them was brought to a dead stand-still, the driving-wheels of to a dead stand-still, the driving-wheels of the engine slipping around as if the rails had been thoroughly oiled. The engineer exhausted the contents of his sand-box be-fore he got through the swamp and reached a clear stretch of track. It was thought that trip would be the end of the cater-pillar trouble, but the very next day a train encountered another army of cater-nullars crossing the trestle and had the pillars crossing the trestle and had the same difficulty.

BIMILAR EXPERIENCE. The Charlotte-bound passenger train yesterday had a similar experience, and a passenger save the scene was something truly wonderful. Therail and cross-ties of the trestle were actually obscured from sight by the masses of caterpillars, and the agnit by the masses of caterphinas, and the ground and swamps on each side of the track were littered with the mashed fragments of millions of the caterpillars, and from the mass an unendurable stench arose. Where the caterpillars came from FERTILIZERS.

The farmers on this nide of the swamp express no aneasiness for the safety of their crops, so long as the advancing army persists in using the trestle as its means of getting across the streams, for none of them have got more than half way across before a train would come along and convert them into fertilizer material.

He had cornered his proud brother-in-law, and after that he raised the ante on him when he felt so inclined. But the congressman from North Carolina went the way of all flesh in a few years, and 'Beau' was thrown on his own resources. For awhile he managed to make a fair living by his wits, but luck deserted him as his old friends were succeeded in the House and Senate by younger and less appreciative men. "During the war there was a Dutch soldier who volunteered to fight the batiles of the South. He was placed under a drillmaster, and among the instructions given were. When you meet the enemy you must go in to win. You must consider that you have either to conquer or to die.' Ish dot so?' Yes, the first duty of a soldier is to obey orders, and that very often means to face the enemy when certain death is to be expected.' Vel, verish dot enemy?' asked the recruit, drawing out his note-book. 'Gif me his post-office and Fill write to him und see if I cand make a combromise when der fight begins.'"

"A day or two ago," said he, "a neighbor of mine passed my house leading a pretty likely, young mule. 'Do you want to sell that mule?' I asked. 'Just as soon as any way. Want to buy one?' 'Yes, I do. I want a mule about the size of that. How old is he?' 'Eight years old this grass.' 'What will you take for him?' 'What will you give?' 'Pilgive you $100 in hard money for that mule.' 'Well, that's mighty cheap,' said he, fidgeting around in the saddle, 'but I need a little money mighty bad and I'll take you up on that trade. Here's your mule!' and he dismounted. 'All right. Come in the house and I'll give you your money.' He came inside, and going to my desk I pulled out a roll of old Confederate bills and counting out five $20 bills I handed it out to him.' 'Why that is no good. What do you a roll of old Confederate bills and counting out five $20 bills I handed it out to him. 'Why, this is no good, What do you mean?' said he. 'That's according to the bargain.' 'How so?' 'I told you I'd give you $100 in bard money for the mule.' Yes, but this is old Confed.' "Well, if that is not hard money, what in the name of common sense would you call it?' The fellow rushed out of the house, jumped on his mule, and rode off. Since then he hardly speaks to me."

THE SPEAKERSHIP

GOSSIP AMONG STATESMEN AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

The Chances to Hold the Gavel of Springer, McMillin, Crisp, and Mills-The Clerkship-The Campaign in Ohio.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.] Washington, May 2.—Quite a number of the members of Congress have been in the

Mr. Springer seems to think that he has a good chance for the speakership—certainly as good a chance as any western or northern man. He claims that outside of his own State he will receive a number of votes on the first ballot that is taken in the Democratic caucus.

Representative McMillin, of Tennessee. has just gotten back from a trip to New York and the East in the interest of his own candidacy for the speakership. Congressman Cummings appears to be his right bower in the fight, and the latter has also been here this week. It is claimed that the Tennessee statesman will have the support of a number of the New York Democrats for Speaker. Judge Crisp also has several followers in that delegation, and the indications are that the contest is already becoming animated.

Representative Hemphill, of South Carolina, who is in the city, does not know how his delegation will vote on the speakership question, and does not indicate at this stage his own preference. Only three of the old members from the Palmetto State have been returned to the House. These Representative McMillin, of Tennessee.

He entered the bar-room of Barnum's Hotel early one evening and stated plainly to the autocrat behind the counter that he was a gentleman who had seen better days; that he was dead broke and wanted a drink. The autocrat took no stock in him, of course. Then Beau approached two well-dressed gentlemen and said: "Gentlemen, I have been used to drink all my life; I am in hard luck and must have a drink. Lend me twenty cents and upon the honor of a gentleman I will pay you." He got the money and turning to the barkeeper with a haughty air demanded the refreshment. The barkeeper put up the bottle and Beau leisurely poured out five fingers of the ruby, mean while holding on to his 20 cents. He turned to his benefactor with the glass of whiskey held aloft and offered this toast: 'Here's to your health, my kind friend' (and a moment later, after he had gulped down the drink), 'and here's your 20 cents. I am Beau Hickman and I always keep my word,' and with that he made his escape before the barkeeper realized that he had been beaten. This is one of the stories that emanate from Washington, and Senator Morrell will remember the man. I don't know what became of Beau, but I think he died about eight years ago."

The messenger returned, of course, without one, and the drummer paid each a dime for the services rendered. The commercial man kept this up until he had spent $2 on his messengers, and then sauntered by the merchant's door, when he heard: 'Say, you springbed man, come in here." The Atlanta drummer walked in leisurely, as if he expected nothing, and in less than half an hour had sold the merchant a car-load of Atlanta-made spring-beds, enough to last the whole section ten years."

EDMUNDS TO CONKLING.

Carson Lake says in the Press to-day: "I had recalled yesterday for my edification, apropos of the resignation of Senator Edmunds, an encounter that took place many years ago in the Senate between him and the late Roscoe Conkling. On some point at issue Mr. Conkling rather pompously said: The Senator from Vermont is mistaken he is fighting a wind-mil.' Looking straight at the proud New York Senator, the Vermonter said, dryly and sarcastically: 'I know it, Mr. President.' The debate got no further on account of the laughter the retort created."

Judge Mathias is a veteran of the veterans, and he relates a goodstory of the lato unpleasantness:

"During the war there was a Dutch soldier who volunteered to fight the battles of the South. He was placed under a drill-master, and among the instructions given were. 'When you meet the enemy your the properties of the May Day Troubles in Rome.

THE MAY-DAY TROUBLES IN ROME.

Caused by an Anarchist Sent from Paris-Exciting Debate in the Chamber.

[By Anglo-American cable to the Dispatch.]
ROME, May 2.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day, amid noisy interruptions, Signor Nicotera, Minister of the Interior, recounted the events of May-day, and read telegrams to show that the country was tranquil. The troubles in Rome, he said, were due to the Anarchist Lamdi, who had been sent expressly from Faris to incite a disturbance. He did not blame the deputies concerned, but he thought it would have been better if they had held aloof and defended the military and police, who had erred rather on the side of tolerance. In view of the coming judicial inquiry he asked the members to withdraw their interpellations, otherwise he must move to adjourn the debate for six months. [By Anglo-American cable to the Dispatch.]

ASTORM OF PROTESTS.

Signor Imbriani provoked a storm of protests by persisting in the face of Signor Nicotera's denial that an officer was brutally attacked at Earelai. The turmoil caused the President to suspend the sitting, and upon it being resumed he declined to adjournit until to-morrow, when the Government would demand an explicit vote of confidence.

Further Trouble.

(By Anglo-American cable to the Dispatch.)

ROME, ITALE, May 2.—Two hundred persons were placed under arrest in connection with the labor-day disorders here. The gendarme wounded yesterday while the police were quelling the riot died this morning from the effect of his injuries.

A number of men engaged in the building trades went on strike to-day. They show a disposition to engage in dangerous demonstrations, but the police immediately disperse any gatherings. Many stores are being closed by their proprietors, who fear there will be more trouble before the day is ended.

Incendiarism in Spala.

"Shall I wax your moustache, sir?"
No reply.

"Sea-foam, sir?"
The man in the chair drew a small tablet from his pocket and wrote on it:

"I am deaf and dumb."
On the wall beside the mirror hung a large "No Credit" card. The barber turned it and pointed to the motion on the reverse side. The inscription was this:

"Deaf and Dumb Men Double Price."

"No shampoo, no wax, no sea-foam!" said the disgusted man in the chair suddenly finding a voice.

"All right, sir," rejoined the barber.

The gendarmes found that all their efforts to repress the disturbance were useless, and they were finally compelled to invoke the aid of the military. At the Harloz colliery in St. Nicholas, where the soldiery had been ordered out to preserve the peace, a rifle-fire failed to awe the rioters, although several of them fell wounded. The strikers very stubbornly resisted the military and only dispersed in the face of a cavalry charge. About thirty of the rioters were arrested. MIL TEARY AID.

London, Eso., May 2.—Ten thousand carpenters and joiners met to-day in Hyde Park in support of the 4,000 members of ese trades who went out on a strike to day for forty-seven hours' work per week, and ten pence (twenty cents) per hour as wages.
